"Sometime" is as catchy as the grip and likely to last longer. Moreover, it is good fun from the first seigure until the subject is discharged from the til the subject is discharged from the officers of the navy and the Marin Shubert Theatre. Rida Johnson Young Corps and the Coast Guard and Mid provided the enlivening book and lyr- shipmen at the Naval Academy and ics, and Rudolph Friml the rhythmical rollicking music. While there is nothing startlingly new about the score, sevmore familiar.

Three of the players stood out as spe cial favorites, Ed Wynn, Francine Larrimore and Mae West. The device of switching back from the present time to five years ago and to various parts of the globe, although not new in itself, gave an air of novelty in its application to musical comedy. A dissolving view afforded by a disk opening in the curtain as in "Chu Chin Chow" afforded an effective glimpse, now and again of an intimate interior, which was nothing less than the dressing room of a theatrical star. of a theatrical star.

Theatrical Love Scenes.

As the romance concerned the love and adventures of a Cheatrical company
Loncy Bright, the property man, impersonated by Ed Wynn, was naturally a nost important personage. He kept ap-pearing with irrepressible and naive onthusiasm to tell new jokes for a sketch that he had been writing for ten years. He had not always been a property man, others will cling to the faith that Bach but got his start by running a theatrical and Beetheven belong to no country, but to the world.

She was quite a young thing then in short freezes. Five years later she was not old, but she had seen a great, great deal of the world, especially that part that she handled gracefully, includthe extraneous features.

The extraneous reatures.

The scenes shifted from the stage of a New York theatre to the dressing room of the star, to the drining room of the young man's playing. But good rhythm, as most musicians know, is scarce.

The scene at the Racing Club in Buenos Aires afforded an opportunity for a zarzuela, and Mildred Le Gue ex-

The recital season was opened at Acolian Hall last evening by Frank to-day that Henri Rabaud, a French Sheridan, planist. He was the first of conductor and composer, had been enthe long procession of planists who will gaged to be permanent conductor to succeed Dr. Muck. A cablegram from the move slowly through the seven months French Ministry of Fine Arts stated that of the musical year, playing all types of Mr. Rabaud would sail as soon as possimusic. Some, like Mr. Sheridan, will be for this country.

One of the principal noveltles at the Metropolitan Opera House last season was Rabaud's opera "Marouf." His "Second Symphony" is a standard work in orchestral repersoire. The passage of the suffrage amendnent by the Senate within the next few months, probably before Christmas, was confidently predicted yesterday by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt on her return from Washington. Behind closed doors at 171 Madison avenue the board of the Naional Woman Suffrage Association held a meeting and formulated plans for getting the necessary number of votes, but when the members came forth from the conference their lips were dumb.
